DRINK HOT TEA FOR A BAD COLD

Get a small package of Hamburg Breast Tea at any pharmacy. Take a tablespoonful of this Hamburg tea, put a cup of boiling water upon it, pour through a sieve and drink a teaspoonful at any time. It is the most effective way to break a cold and cure grip, as it opens the pores, relieving congestion. Also loosens the bowels, thus breaking a cold at once. It is inexpensive and entirely vegetable, therefore harmless.

TUMULTY DENIES ROW WITH BRYAN

Intimation in letters introduced in the propaganda hearing here that W. J. Bryan left President Wilson's Cabinet because of differences with Secretary Tumulty were refuted today by two letters given out at the White House.

Tumulty is still confined at home with a cold, but directed that the letters be made public. They follow:

"June 9, 1915.

"My Dear Mr. Bryan: I cannot see you leave the President's official family without expressing the great pleasure that I have had in my association with you here in Washington.

Speeches An Inspiration.

"As a young man, your speeches were an inspiration to me in the dark days of Democracy; I looked up to you as a great leader of the people; and I followed you enthusiastically and loyally in every campaign. I was more than pleased when I heard that you were to go into the Cabinet, and one of the real delights of my position as Secretary to the President has been the opportunity it afforded me to know you in such an intimate way and to serve you. It is a source of great pleasure to know that you are and tireless you have been in your cooperation with the President. Knowing his profound admiration for you, in which I share, I cannot express in words how deeply I felt when I learned that you were to leave the official family.

"May I extend to you my very best wishes wherever you may go? Please be good enough to convey to Mrs.

20, at 4 o'clock sharp, when their annual celebration to commemorate the birth of General Robert Edward Lee will take place. The junior defense guard of boys will act as a guard of honor. E. Hilton Jackson will deliver the address. Veterans' daughters and children are cordially invited.

The O'Connor Dramatic School has issued invitations to a reception to be given at Studio Hall, 1219 Connecticut avenue, tomorrow evening at 8:30 o'clock. The program will open with a lecture by Mr. Kling-Smith, the first of a series on the science and psychology of singing, and a musical program the pupils of Caleb W. O'Connor will present "The Child of Belgium" with the following cast: Belgium, Miss Josephine Houston; France, Miss Flora Ellis; England, Miss Vivian Wallace; Italy, Miss Dora Matthews, and America, Miss Dorothy Metz.

Mrs. M. S. S. Parker, 1412 Decatur street, entertained Wednesday evening in honor of the members of her junior class in music and their friends. A short program was given during the evening. Miss Dorothy Hasbrouck, played a violin solo. Mrs. Hasbrouck played a violin solo. Miss Elsie Chamberlain and Miss Mary Hattie gave piano solos, and the children's "community sing" brought the evening to a close.

An enjoyable party was given Wednesday evening at the Arcade for a party of young people, chaperoned by Mrs. D. T. Grady. The guests were Miss Kitty Grady, Miss Pauline Alsop, Miss Nellie Hanley, Miss Thelma Crawford, Miss Catherine Shea and Miss Eleanor Jenkins.

Mrs. David Martin, 407 S. Nashville, Tenn., writes: "I had a very bad cold, something like 'GRIP,' and after using Juniper Tar I have entirely recovered."

Why Run-Down Pale Exhausted Women Should Take Iron

"There can be no beautiful, healthy, rosy-cheeked, steady, nervous women without iron. When the iron goes from the blood of women, the roses go from the cheeks—their charm and attractiveness disappear. I have insisted that my patients take organic iron—Nuxated Iron—not metallic iron. Much iron corrodes the stomach and does more harm than good. Nuxated Iron is easily assimilated, does not blacken, nor injure the teeth nor upset the stomach. It will increase the strength and endurance of weak, nervous, irritable, careworn, haggard women in two weeks' time in many cases. I have used it with most surprising results."—Ferdinand King, M.D., well known New York physician and medical author. (Satisfaction guaranteed or money refunded—On sale at all good druggists.)

Bryan my compliments and my sincere regards, and believe me, "Cordially and sincerely yours," "J. F. TUMULTY."

Bryan Replies in Kind.

In reply, Bryan wrote: "June 13, 1915.

"My Dear Mr. Tumulty: "I hope you will pardon my delay in answering your very kind note. I have been so overwhelmed with work that I laid it aside until I could find leisure to tell you with my own pen how much I have enjoyed personal association with you and how much I appreciate your many courtesies. I am sure it is a great honor to have contributed toward your activities in politics—an activity which has led you to such deserved prominence in national affairs. We are both young, and I look forward with pleasant anticipation to life opportunities that may come to a renewal of the acquaintance.

"With good wishes, I am, "Very truly yours,

"W. J. BRYAN."

The letters were published in refutation of correspondence produced by the military intelligence service files of letters written by J. F. Dickinson and written into the record of the Senate committee investigating German propaganda had the communications submitted late yesterday.

Dickinson, before the United States entered the war, was Washington correspondent of George Sylvester Vanderbilt. His letter claim to record conversations with persons high in Washington official life, including President Wilson.

Declares Bryan Half Loyal.

"I was not here when Bryan was last in Washington," said a letter dated June 4, 1916, "but I have learned from two or three of his intimates, who talked with him that he will give the Wilson cause only the most perfunctory support in the campaign. This will also mark the course of Speaker Clark.

"I don't know whether I told you in one of my last letters the story related by Mrs. Bryan to T. H. Pickford, a local Democratic magnate, of the immediate cause of her husband's precipitate retirement from the Cabinet.

"It was that Tumulty told a prominent German-American that Bryan was the sole cause of the Administration's anti-German policy.

"Pickford went to Tumulty with the story, and the atmosphere of the White House was blue with curses of the Bryans at the time Pickford was there. Pickford has since written to Tumulty an account of his interview with Tumulty.

"This matter could be so worked up as to force Wilson to rid himself of Tumulty. What suggestions have you to make as to its handling? I believe it too big an opportunity to be neglected. Mrs. Bryan possibly would be willing to come out in an open statement. She is a very able and a very determined woman. She outshines the whole Wilson outfit, especially Tumulty, the tumultuous."

Dickinson, in a letter written June 9, 1916, referred to an interview with Secretary Tumulty, when the question of the German campaign was discussed. He said Tumulty asked him if he thought Vierick would support Wilson or the Republican nominee.

"When I told Tumulty that you probably might make a visit to Washington," the letter said, "and that I should want to have him meet you and two or three others at luncheon, he said it might be embarrassing all around should be seen, with you."

Shadow Lava Interview.

Dickinson wrote another letter to Vierick on October 24, 1915, in which he told of an alleged interview he had with President Wilson at Shadow Lava, in which the President inquired at length about Vierick and discussed his "apparent sense of fairness."

"On the general subject of hypenotism he seemed wholly at ease," Dickinson wrote. "He said he believed that a year ago their blood had been so heated against him that they were violently against him en masse. He added, however, that he was convinced that their blood had cooled, and that their exclamationary leaders were in the main the only element that persistently took an unfair view of his conduct."

Sought Interview.

"I had almost forgotten to tell you that during the conversation the President said in effect that he wanted to know you and others who, like yourself, have individualized themselves in these troublesome times, because you might be useful 'when settlement time comes'."

In another letter Dickinson wrote Vierick that President Wilson, he felt convinced, was growing so desperate for re-election "that he will do anything this side of a scandal to save himself at the polls in November."

"There is no sincerity on either side of the German question, though the Wilson crowd is likely to attempt to make more than the other side," he added.

On June 28, 1916, Dickinson wrote Vierick:

"Rumblings At White House."

"There are low rumblings at the White House premonitory of happenings of interest affecting the British question. I have been unable as yet to get an accurate line on what they mean. There is much being said, too, concerning reports of the advent of a new German submarine in American waters, coupled with the assertion in some quarters that its real destination is Mexico."

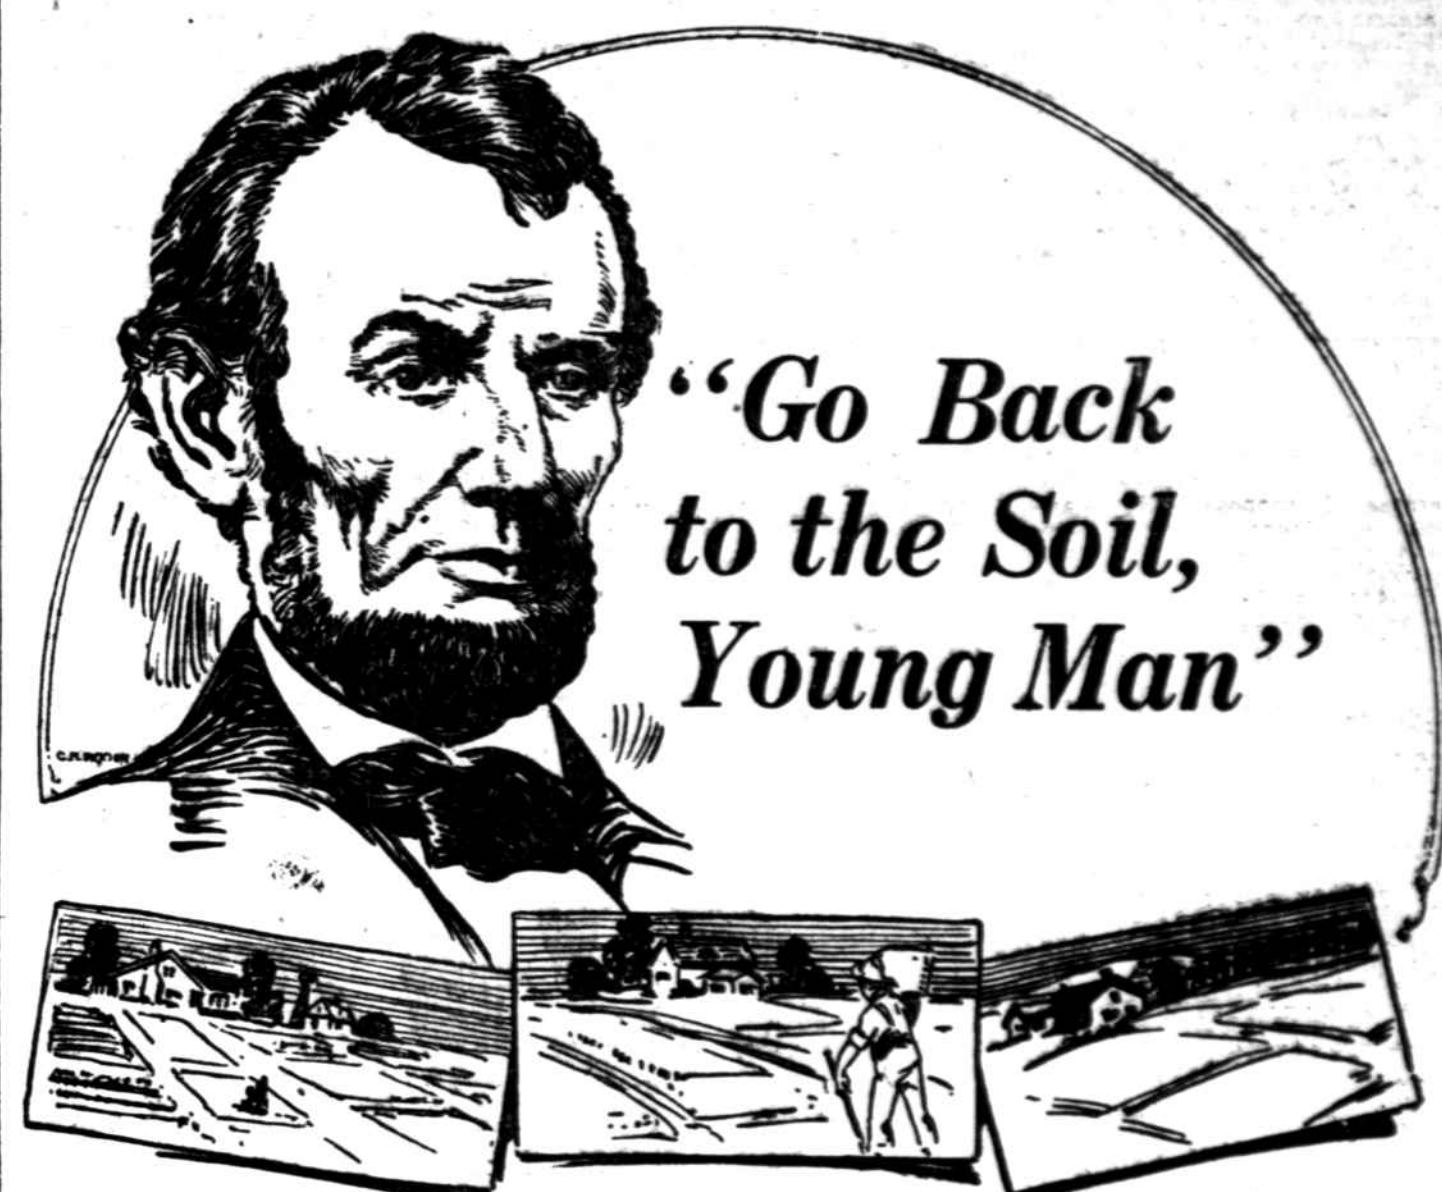

Writing to Vierick on June 4, 1916, Dickinson said that a break between the President and Secretary Lansing was imminent because of the latter's hostility to Germany. The letter added:

Expected Lansing to Quit.

"In spite of denials from the White House recently of friction between Lansing and Wilson, I would not be at all surprised if Lansing would leave the Cabinet, possibly because of 'falling health' within a few weeks. The Republican campaign managers are taking his Mexican relations and activities past and present with a fine toothed comb. This the President knows, too."

RUMFORD THE WHOLESOME BAKING POWDER

To quote the words of our great President Abraham Lincoln,

"No other occupation opens so wide a field for the profitable and agreeable combination of LABOR and CULTIVATED THOUGHT as agriculture. Every blade of GRASS is a study—and to produce TWO where there was ONE before is both a PROFIT and a PLEASURE."

"And not grass alone, but soil, seeds, and seasons—hedgcs, ditches, and fences—draining, droughts, and irrigation—plowing, hoeing, and HARROWING—REAPING, MOWING and THRESHING—SAVING CROPS, PESTS of crops, DISEASES of crops and their PREVENTION and CURE—IMPLEMENTS, UTENSILS and MACHINES, their relative MERITS and how to IMPROVE them—HOGS, HORSES and CATTLE—SHEEP, GOATS and POULTRY—TREES, SHRUBS, FRUITS, PLANTS and FLOWERS—the THOUSAND things of which these are specimens—EACH a world of study in itself."
